Muscular Intelligence Quotient (MIQ)
With the Mechanical Arm Wrestler*

In its struggle to stop the human race turning into a bunch of wimps, Mécanique Vivante has designed an idiosyncratic machine capable of measuring M.I.Q. or Muscular Intelligence Quotient.

The drama unfolds between a zealous Professor and the Master of Ceremonies : both convinced that the thought process is only valid when accompanied by physical exertion.

Each defends in their own way the virtues of Muscular Intelligence: one through application with his machine, the other through scholarly lecturing.

How it works

The master of ceremonies adjusts the strength and height of the mechanical arm wrestler so that men, women and children can equitably test their strength against the machine.

The Dynamogram is the great leveller: it records the force exerted by the spectator's arm over a twenty second period. After each match, the Dynamogram is analysed and interpreted by the Professor.

The Mechanical Arm Wrestler gives the spectator a chance to test their Muscular Intelligence and reflect on how to improve it - great fun, a bit of exercise and a hilarious commentary.
